

MRS. PATTERSON, ON TRIAL TO-DAY, TO BARE SECRETS

Woman Who Slew Her Husband Will Pose on Stand as a "Sold Wife."

SELF-DEFENSE HER PLEA.

Will Say Chicago Millionaire Paid Husband $1,500 for Marrying Her.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 20.—When Gertrude Gibson Patterson, whose trial for the murder of her husband on Sept. 21 last began to-day, takes the stand in her own behalf she will describe herself as a "sold wife." She will tell how she discovered that her husband had received $1,500 from a Chicago millionaire who had befriended her, and how her husband had tried to use her as an instrument for the extortion of large sums of money from her erstwhile protector.

Mrs. Patterson, according to a statement made by her attorneys, will lay bare all the secrets of her life, beginning with her meeting with the Chicago millionaire when she was a girl of sixteen. She will tell of the friendship which began then and how the millionaire sent her to Paris to be educated. Five months later, she will say, she returned to Chicago, and from that time, for five years, she was known as the millionaire's wife.

She will also tell how this relationship was broken off, and how she married Patterson, who, knowing her past, seemed to be willing to give her a fresh start in life. Later, she will testify, through a device of her husband's, she again met this millionaire, but under perfectly proper conditions.

After this meeting, according to the story she will tell on the stand, her husband contemplated bringing against the millionaire a suit for alienation of affections. Patterson, stricken with consumption, had gone to a sanitarium in Denver, and on the day of the tragedy, while they were waiting near the institution, they quarreled about the proposed suit, and he had boasted of the $1,500 he is said to have extorted from the millionaire.

She approached him bitterly, she will say, and he tried to kill her. In self-defense she shot him.

The prosecution charges that the quarrel between the couple was over the proposed alienation suit, and that Mrs. Patterson shot her husband when he refused to drop the case.

It expects to show, by eye witness, that she fired a second shot at Patterson lay on the ground, begging for mercy, and that after the shooting, she placed the revolver under his body.

BOY BURGLARS ROBBED TO BUY DRESS CLOTHES.

Loot of Combs and Brushes Found in Flat and Girl Is Arrested.

Albert Bruno, fifteen years old, of No. 25 Varick street, and Lewis Cavello, also fifteen, of No. 17 Sullivan street, were arraigned in the Children's Court to-day charged with stealing $1,000 worth of combs and brushes from the flats of David Lichtenstein at No. 38 Canal street.

Detectives Schenck and Fitzpatrick said the boys had confessed, explaining that they had stolen in order to get money to purchase dress and suit clothes. They declared that they were "champion spicers" and that all that was lacking in life to them was the elation of possessing evening dress.

The boys told the detectives that they had taken their plunder to the flat of Henrietta Martino at No. 60 Thompson street. This young woman was arrested and so was a man who gave the name of Roger Conte, who was found in her apartment. The Martino girl declared that the boys had told her that they had purchased the pelf at an auction and that they were going to peddle it during the week before Christmas. But there was also found in her flat a quantity of briarwood pipes that had been stolen from a tobacco shop on Canal street last Monday.

MOTHER AND BABY BURNED.

Kerosene Can Explodes When Mrs. Fevert Pours Oil on Fire.

Mrs. Lena Fevert, eighteen years old, the wife of a salesman, put kerosene on the fire in the kitchen of her home at No. 126 Willoughby avenue, Brooklyn, to-day, because it was slow in starting. The fire blazed up and caught her dress and she threw the kerosene can into the air. The spattering oil fell on her skirts and on the coverings of the crib of her three-months-old baby, Marie, who had been pulled up close to the stove.

Both the mother and baby were covered with flames in a moment. When neighbors ran in, hearing Mrs. Fevert scream, they pulled blankets from the bed and tried to smother the flames. In their excitement and haste they did little to better things until Policeman Turner of the Hamburg avenue station, hearing the uproar from the street, ran upstairs, stripped off his heavily-padded coat, wrapped Mrs. Fevert in it and then tore the clothing from the baby.

Both mother and child were burned over the body so that they probably can live but a few hours at the most. They were taken to the German Hospital.

TWO HOUSES SINK.

Peaked Inmate Rescued From Flames in Sixty-Foot Pit.

SCRANTON, Nov. 20.—Two houses sank sixty feet into a mine cave-in on Itasca avenue in this city early to-day, endangering the lives of two families. The houses were occupied by Warren Stephens and Patrick Buckley. Stephens and his wife were penned in their bedrooms.

A ladder was lowered into the cave-in by neighbors and the couple were rescued as fire started in the wreckage.

"SOLD" WIFE TRIED FOR MURDER OF HER HUSBAND.

MRS. GERTRUDE PATTERSON.

RENO DIVORCE COLONY WOMEN GUESTS AT BALL

Town Youths Play Host, and Ministers Describe It as One "Wild Orgy."

RENO, Nov. 20.—Divorcees in fact, in the making and in prospective showed signs of recovery to-day from the revelry of the wildest divorce ball the colony here has ever carried out. It was given last Friday night by callow youths of Reno. Most of the hosts had reached the mature ages of nineteen and twenty, although there were two who had actually voted. The guests were the women members of the divorce colony.

The doors were closed at 9 o'clock and the orchestra was ordered to break the speed laws. It obeyed. The owner of the building is threatening a damage suit because the romping loosened the plaster on the ceiling under the dance hall.

The punch was a special brew, served with the limit off, and one well known New York woman had to be taken home in the automobile of the wife of a wealthy Los Angeles man. Several loud altercations among the women guests further enlivened the evening, and the orchestra, besides the "Grizzly Bear" and "Turkey Trot," played terpsichorean dreams that were accompanied with volleys of pistol shots. Reno ministers call the affair an orgy.

Investor Dead at 70.

Thomas Hall, seventy-six years old, inventor of one of the first typewriters and of many labor saving devices, among them improvements on the sewing machine, is dead at his home, No. 133 Cumberland street, Brooklyn. He was also a patent attorney and a friend of Henry Ward Beecher and Prof. Trowbridge of Columbia. A son and two daughters survive him.

DIAMONDS 34 CARAT Flawless Blue $175

A short time ago we offered a lot of diamonds, including three-quarters of a carat (exactly the size of this one) for $215. Now we offer one at $175. It may seem strange, but one is as cheap as the other, quality considered. A flawless blue diamond of this quality commands almost any price in any American or European market. In fact, we could get twice as much for this stone if we had a match for it so they could be mounted in Ear Drops. However, we will offer this stone for $175, regardless of what we might get if we held on to it a while longer. If this advertisement should come to the notice of anybody who is looking for a diamond ring of this size, please write the very best that money can buy, we will refund it for $175, with the distinct understanding that the money will be refunded if it can be duplicated for double the price. See our advertisement on back of all invoices. Here are a few other stones we have on hand. They will be sold with the understanding that an early call will be for your advantage.
